OCTOBER BEST MONTH TO PICK BREEDING HENS

Within the next four or five weeks every farmer in Kentucky should select and mark the best hens in his poultry flock in order that these birds may be used in special breeding pens next spring, according to J. R. Smyth, poultry extension specialist of the College of Agriculture. Many farmers who keep poultry as a sideline, as well as scores of experienced poultry breeders in the State have found any flock can be increased by selecting the highest producing birds in the flock and mating them with desirable males for the production of hatching eggs.

October is perhaps the best month for selecting such a pen since it is possible to pick out the high producing hens at that time of the year. Farmers who wait until spring to pick out their breeding hens will find that they are unable to distinguish easily between heavy layers and those that produce only a small number of eggs during the year. After the hens have been selected, they should be marked with leg bands or some other device in order that they may be recognized in the spring when the time for mating arrives.

Only those hens that are not moulting or those that have just started should be selected when the breeding hens are being picked in October. The yellow color also should be faded from the shanks and beaks of birds belonging to yellow-shanked breeds. Vigorous hens having a bright, clear, prominent eye with an eyelid that is free from fat usually will have many of the characteristics that are desirable in breeding hens. It is important that all hens selected for the breeding pen be laying at this time of the year. Soft, pliable pelvic bones that are wide apart and a soft, pliable abdomen that has at least two and one-half fingers depth between the pelvic bones and the end of the breast bone usually can be taken as an indication that the hen is still laying. No bird should be selected that is not a good representative of the breed. From 12 to 18 Leghorn hens should be picked for every rooster that will be used in the spring breeding and from 10 to 12 birds of other breeds.

REVIEW OF POULTRY AND EGG MARKETS

Poultry receipts increased during the week with a little easier tone at the close. A larger movement is noted in the country, and with fuller arrivals in prospect, the market tendency is toward lower values.

Poultry packing plants generally have sufficient help to take care of a liberal volume of poultry. Even marketing is suggested, in order to prevent a glut a few weeks hence.

Due to lighter receipts and continued demand from the consuming trade, prices for butter and butterfat have advanced. The higher tariff duties now in effect probably will prevent the importation of much foreign butter in the near future.

The United States Department of Agriculture, in its report of September 19, shows the following comparative stocks of butter as of September 1:

1922. 112,062,000 lbs
1921. 92,292,000 lbs

Decrease 19,770,00 lbs
Extra fall and winter feeding will help keep up the milk flow and bring increased returns.

A good demand for fresh eggs was noted in all markets, with prices generally ruling higher for fine stock. Eggs that have been held are not wanted and do not command top prices.

Best results are obtained by collecting eggs promptly and marketing frequently each week.

Kipling denies he criticized the United States in a talk with a rag, a bone and a hank of hair.

SEVEN EVENTS TO AFFECT PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

Markets for farm products, especially poultry, will be affected to a considerable extent during the remainder of the present year by at least seven important holidays, according to O. B. Jessen, head of the section of markets of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. While Thanksgiving and Christmas are the two most important events, various others, especially Jewish holidays, of which there are several during the coming months, are expected to have an important effect on the markets for certain products.

New York City is the leading live poultry market of the country with the result that prices received by farmers in this State will be influenced to a considerable extent by the demands of markets in that city. Day of Atonement is the nearest holiday of any consequence, this one being celebrated October 2. All prime stock, especially White Leghorn chickens and roosters, are in demand for this event. September 26 to 29 include the best New York marketing days for products in demand for this holiday. Feast of Tabernacles, which will be celebrated four days later, October 6, will create a demand for ducks, fowls and fat geese. The best New York market days for products in demand for this holiday are October 2 to 4.

Columbus Day, which will be celebrated October 12, will create a demand for live chickens, fowls and rabbits. The best market days in New York for these commodities are October 9 to 11. Turkeys, geese, fowls, capons, sucking pigs and rabbits will be in demand for Thanksgiving Day, which will be celebrated November 30. The best New York market days for these commodities are from November 22 to 28.

Prime quality products of all kinds will be in demand December 15 at which time the Feast of Law will be celebrated. December 11 to 13 include the best New York market days for these commodities. Christmas Day, December 25, will bring about a demand for turkeys, geese, fowls, capons, sucking pigs, live rabbits and live goats. The best market days in New York for these commodities come between December 19 and 22. The same commodities that will be in demand at Christmas will be in demand for New Year's Day, January 1. The best New York market days for commodities in demand for this event usually come between December 26 and 29.

BIG TROTTER MEETING FOR LEXINGTON

More than $90,000 will be distributed among winning owners during the ten days of Golden Jubilee meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Breeders' Association at Lexington October 2 to 14. The program for the meet has been arranged to provide at least one stellar attraction for each day's card.

According to Edward A. Tipton, president of the association, all indications point to one of the most successful meetings in the half-century the course has been in existence.

Among the features carded are The Transylvania, the two and three-year-old divisions of the Futurity, The Kentucky and the Cumberland, which have graced the yearly programs since the inauguration of the association. In addition to these attractions are The Castleton, The Ashland, The Walnut Hall Cup and The Lexington, all of which were added several years ago. The May-Day Stakes, the $13,000 purse for two-year-old trotters, and the Board of Commerce purse for free-for-all pacers, were added this year.

"GOOD HEALTH WEEK"

The week from October 23 to 29 definitely has been fixed as the date of "Good Health Week" in Kentucky, Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, has announced.

"There have been," he said in explanation of what is proposed, "various good health weeks previously, principally instigated by health officials and officers of different kinds. The 'Good Health Week' in October will be entirely different."

"The desirability of good health made such an appeal to the commercial world that organized industries have built up an organization to put over campaigns in different parts of the country emphasizing the value of health from an industrial point of view. We have succeeded in persuading this organization to put across the campaign in Kentucky."

"The slogans of 'Good Health Week,'" Dr. McCormack said, "will be: 'Healthy people work better,' 'Healthy people buy more goods,' and 'The health and longevity of its people are a nation's greatest asset.'"

The Executive Committee that will put across the Kentucky campaign consists of G. C. Breidert, Chicago, chairman; William F. Hatch, Milwaukee, secretary and treasurer; William F. Heissenbuttal, Brooklyn; William J. Woolley, Evansville, Ind.; William A. Biddle, Cincinnati; E. Vernon Hill, Chicago; Charles G. Parks, Chicago, and Dr. McCormack.

Closed Car Luxury Unsurpassed
The 1923 Six Cylinder Seven Passenger Sedan—$2195

A dignified beauty and richness unexcelled by any closed car mark the new Buick seven passenger sedan.

Lengthening the body, lowering the top and raising both hood and radiator have improved the streamline appearance made possible by the long wheel base, and added attractiveness has been given by the handsome nicked drum-type head and cowl lamps.

The roomy Fisher built body is furnished in rich plush. Deep cushioned seats for five with two comfortable folding chairs accommodate seven grown persons with ample room for everyone.

The chassis has been improved materially and its easy riding qualities heightened by a new rear spring suspension.

In the famous Buick Valve-in-Head engine, changes also have been made to increase its dependable performance.

In every detail of body, chassis and power plant, this Sedan has no superiors among closed cars of even greater price.

The Buick Line for 1923 comprises fourteen models:

Four—2 Pass. Roadster, $865; 5 Pass. Touring, $885; 3 Pass. Coupe, $1175; 5 Pass. Sedan, $1395; 5 Pass. Touring Sedan, $1325. Sixes—2 Pass. Roadster, $1175; 5 Pass. Touring, $1195; 5 Pass. Sedan, $1985; 4 Pass. Coupe, $1895; 7 Pass. Touring, $1435; 7 Pass. Sedan, $2195; Sport Roadster, $1625; Sport Touring, $1675. Prices f. o. b. Buick factories. Ask about the G. M. A. C. Purchase Plan, which provides for Deferred Payments.

The center main bearings of the Buick Valve-in-Head engine are lubricated by oil under a constant pressure from a gear pump, insuring a film of oil at all times between the bearing surfaces. The pump also forces a volume of oil directly into the crank case at each connecting rod pocket making certain perfect lubrication of these bearings also.
